SLOAN IS ALONE AND FAR IN FRONT.

JLENHEIM BEATEN, AS SIMS RODE HIM POORLY, Thought won the twenty-thousand-dollars National Stallion Stakes at Morris Park yesterday. Lack of thought lost it. Sloan was Thought in that race. Sims was Lack of Thought. Sims was on Glenheim Sloan was on Jean Beraud. Sloan has a hig stock of sense. Sims's stock of sense is small. John E. Madden is overworked. He knows a great deal about horses, but he tries to do all his own training, and he does not get sleep enough. When an owner takes up the habit of leaving his bed at 3 o'clock in the morning for seven days in the week, and signing a contract Sims to ride his horses, he cannot last. He ought to have a daily engagement with his under-

No one at Morris Park could find fault with the weather yesterday. It was perfect. When a racing association has perfect weather and a track which could not be sounder, then the management should rejoice loudly. And the management did rejoice yesterday. The attendance was Gargan-tuan. It distanced in a canter the attendance on the first day. Money congested the treasure-box of the track in so huge sums that an extra day of racing for the Red Cross on Friday. announced. The Sensation Stable will contribute its winnings on Mont D'Or, and Great Bend expected to run. Putting aside all quips and uiddities, it is unalloyed verity to say that the grandstand yesterday buzzed like a beehive, and the cyclorama of gazers was extreme in numbers and vociferous in cheers. Few afternoons in the archives of the Westchester Racing Association archives of the Westerster whole sum of the fifth where anywhere near the whole sum of the fifth day of this spring meeting. It was a turf function of note. That's the way in which the London the way the way the state of the s scribes phrase it when they write about Hyde the gee-gees are getting their ante-tea airing. Yes, Morris Park was really in form. set was there. Even Park Lane might have let it pass without a give.

John Daly is just back from dear old London. and his colt Jean Beraud, with a Latin Quarter name, and a descent on the male side which could not have failed to please at Eton, or Oxford, or Aldershot, has the honour (with a u) of first place in the twenty-thousand-dollars National Stallion Stakes. The original Jean Beraud was a Parisian painter, but this colt is a son of His Highness, and he was ridden by Sloan, whose jockeyship has the etamp of the Windsor signet of Albion. How could John E. Madden, with his common colt Glenheim, ridden by a cocon-colored boy, whose rid-ing was laughed at on the heath of Newmarket, downs of Epsom, and on the moors Yorkshire, expect to conquer Jean Beraud, whose owner had just come back post haste from the Strand? Madden ought to hear Yum Yum's song In that pat and pretty ditty "The Mikado." Yum Yum, in her modest and melodious prattle, declares that she and the moon are very wide-Madden is not nearly so wide-awake as John Daly, owner of Jean Beraud, Mr. Daly went over to London to get the latest Mayfair touch, and his jockey Sloan knows more about jockeyship in a minute than Madden's jockey Sims knows in a month.

Make a note of this, all racing men, and remember it. Glenheim is a betier two-year-old than Jean Beraud. But Madden needs a trainer and he needs a jockey. Madden ought not to try to be a manufacturer, a merchant, a mill-owner, an agent, a di-rector-general, a commissioner, a stable manager, trainer, a teacher of riders, an instructor in jockeyship, a breeder, a producer and a contractor for the services of Congo conneisseurs all at one Homer had his limits. Dante put in verse his poetle nceptions of three worlds, but in regard to the was almost omniscient, but not quite. To sum it up once more, Glenheim is a better colt than Jean Beraud, but Sloar as a jockey is just now almost as far superior to Sims as this United States of ours is superior to Sims as this United States of ours is superior to Spain in naval power. And it is in one thing that Joan E. Madden is not up to date. As a breeder, as a judge of racehorses, as a master of race-course problems, as a turf expert, he is high up among the earls and the dukes and the princes, but as to picking our a jockey he may possibly err here and there. In several races in 1887 he put Wilhite on Hamburg. Was not that enough to prove that his grasp of the relative merits of riders might be occasionally a little astray? It is now a settled fact that Sloan is by ten pounds, at least, the supreme and unique jockey of America. Mr. Madden does not yet see that. Possibly he is a trifle near-sighted as to jockeyship. Sloan on Jean Beraud rode all around Sims on Glenheim just as ridden around the bears in the Chicago wheat pit. Sloan is the Dewey of American jockeys. He is the Leiter of the American turf pit. Sims rides as if he were seeking to coin the seigniorage. Sloan is a gold-standard jockey every time.

HOW THE HORSES WERE RIDDEN. was almost omniscient, but not quite. To sum it

HOW THE HORSES WERE RIDDEN.

Sloan had five mounts yesterday. He was first on Jean Beraud in the National Stallion Stakes, but if he had ridden Glenheim and Sims had ridden Jean Beraud, Glemheim would have taken the prize and Jean Beraud would have been second. These are war times, and time and space are scant in newspaper offices. A detailed description of all the riding in that race from start to finish would convince the most stubborn of sceptics that Glemheim ought to have lost it. Sims spent too much time in admiring the landscape and looking around over each shoulder again and again when he thought that Glemheim had the context absolutely at his mercy. Gloan is an Anglo-Saxon. Sims is not. In this great two-year-old race Stoan was full of business from start to finish. That's the Anglo-Saxon was the Anglo-Saxon way. The thoughts of coffee-colored Sims seemed to be wandering to the julcy watermelons of Athens, Georgia. That is not the Anglo-Saxon way. Dewey is straight Anglo-Saxon. At Manila he did not let his thoughts wander. If no jockey had ever been allowed to ride in American turt would have been almost as free from guie as was the Athenhan agora. Nevertheless, the Athenhan agora. Nevertheless, the Athenhan seed of the third the Anglo-Saxon way. The seed of Beraud, Glenneim would have taken the prize and paper offices. A detailed description of all the rid-

WHATERLOU WINS AT ST. LOUIS. BEASON OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY WITH MANY IN ATTENDANCE.

St. Louis, May 14-The spring and summer meeting of the St. Louis Fair Association opened here to-day, with at least ten thousand people present, notwithstanding the counter attraction of the celebration given in honor of Admiral Dewey. Hig fields were the rule, but the track was fetlock deep in mud and the going was slow. Three favorites out of the six were winners.

The Inaugural Stakes at one mile, worth $2,999 to the winner, was the big event of the day. Fif teen bookles drew in and had all they could do handling the money.

The betting on the event closed as follows: Whaterlou and Our Chance, 4 to 1; Time Maker, 7 to 2;
Fervor, 4 to 1; Buckvidere, 7 to 1; Harry Duke and Dr. Sheppard, each 8 to 1; the others being neglected.

Dr. Sneppard, each s to 1, the charles lected.

At the post there was but little delay, the field of ten horses ketting away in good shape with Sarina in the van. Sne soon fell back and Harry Duke went to the front. At the quarter he led by a half-ingth, and at the half he had opened up a length's gap. Our chance and Young Leigh were close up. Near the stretch Our Chance quit and Whaterlou and Dr. Sheppard went after the leader, but Freeman kept Harry Duke well to the front. Fifty yards from the finish Harry Duke faitered, and Whaterlou landed first by a head. Dr. Sheppard was a weary third, four lengths back. Time Maker, the favorite, was last.

M'DUFFIE BREAKS THE RECORD IN THE RACE AT CAMBRIDGE.

Cambridge, Mass., May 14 (Special).-"Eddie" Jean Beraud would have been second. These are war times, and time and space are scant in news-of New-York, this afternoon in a fifteen-mile paced race, breaking all world records and furnishing the finest exhibition of bicycle racing that has ever been seen on the Charles River Park track.

McDuffie was paced by four quints and a quad while the New-Yorker was paced by two sexes, two quads and one triplet. From the first it promtwo quads and one triplet. From the first it promised to be a pacemakers' race. The National Association pacing team seemed fairly to pull the little Bostonian around with it, whether he wanted to go or not. The American pacing team, however, did not do so well for Titus. Still, Titus was not in the form to keep up with the terrific pace set by McDuffle.

Those who had watched the work of McDuffle lately knew that he had a surprise in store for the spectators, still, the betting was in favor of Titus.

the spectators, still, the betting was in favor of Titus.

At the pistol-shot Titus, headed by his triplet, darted out and tried to get a lead at once, and at first it looked as if he was going to. It took just three laps for McDuffle to close up the little gap and take the lead. From this time on it was McDuffle's race. At the end of the second mile he had gained three hundred yards on the New-Yorker. At the end of his fifth mile he had broken the world's record by five and three-fifths seconds and had nearly five hundred yards lead. In the last lap of the sixth mile the little Bostonian passed Titus and went shooting out, trying to gain another lap, which he succeeded in doing in the thirteenth mile. When McDuffle went flying across the tape in the last lap of the fifteenth mile it was announced that he had broken a world's record. His time was 27 min. 93-5 sec; the previous record for the same distance was 27 min. 144-5 sec.

The mile professional tandem race was won by Charles Henshaw, New-York, and F. P. Kent, Cambridge, second, A. T. Crooks, Buffalo, and A. R. Miller.

Toler playing rather indifferently, but at the end Toler won easily by seven up and six to play. In the Consolation Cup finals A. G. Hamilton, Baltusrol, beat Howard A. Colby, Essex County, by two up. Colby soled his club in a hazard on the last hole, or the match would have been all square. In the final round A. G. Jennings, Dyker Meadow, won a well-earned victory from Hamilton, by four up and three to play. There was a throng of spectators on the links, and the weather was perfect for golf. The summary of the team match was:

Baltusrol-J. A. Tyng, 90; L. P. Bayard, jr., 99; H. G. Leavitt, 86; H. P. Toler, 89; total, 374.

NOTES OF THE GOLF LINKS. The annual eighteen-hole medal play handicap of the Stock Exchange Golf Club, in which the directors are Ransom H. Thomas, W. H. Sands, P. Toler, Daniel Chauncey, W. A. Putnam and Borden Harriman, will be played on June 11 at was begun with thirty-five starters. The winner was W. S. Edey, on his handicap, but the greatest interest was in the meeting between Toler and C. B. Macdonald, of Chicago, the latter making the gross score of 90 to Toler's 91. Puts and calls, it is said, were sold on the result of this duel on the about Wall Street. The most important fixture of the spring at the Knollwood Country Club, golfers, will be the open tournament on May 19, by mall yesterday:

of six for the championship of Staten Island and between the Harbor Hill, Richmond County and Staten Island Cricket and Baseball Clubs. The order of games will be: May 18, Staten Island and Richmond, at Livingston, June 18, Harbor Hill and Staten Island, at Harbor Hill, July 2, Harbor Hill and Richmond, at Harbor Hill, September 3, Staten Island and Richmond, at Dongan Hills, October 15, Staten Island and Harbor Hill, at Livingston. One good result that should come from these team matches is the cessation of the plactice of exchanging players, now in vogue on Staten Island whethever one of the three clubs has on an important match. George E. Armstrong, for instance, is the captain of the Staten Island Cricket and Haseball Club team, yet on Saturday be played on the Harbor Hill team against the Powelton Club, at Newburg, and to-morrow he is to play for Richmond County against the Rockaway Hunt Club. The system is a very confusing one, and not indersed by the United States Golf Association. Staten Island Cricket and Baseball Clubs.

GOLF ON THE ORANGE LINKS.

WASHINGTON TEAM NARROWLY ES-

CAPES A SHUTOUT. The New-York and Washington baseball teams played another game at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and the Senators, as usual, were defeated. The men from the District of Columbia fielded in unisually good style, and they made almost as many base hits as their opponents, but could not make them count. Davis, Gleason, Wrigley and Reitz did some pretty fielding. The Senators did their only effective batting in the seventh inning, where they made all their runs. The score:

them a large number of women, watched with great enthusiasm the thirteen-inning game of onseball that was played at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday afternoon between teams from the office of the Auditor of Disbursements-Controllers. and Hudson River Railroad Interdepartment Baseball League, and the large number of railroad men that journeyed from the Grand Central Station highly pleased that the opening game was so evenly contested. The game opened with the Auditor of Disbursements-Controllers at the bat. Hobby made the first base hit. Neither side scored until the third inning, when Georgie Barnes, of the Auditor of Freight Accounts team landed the applause. It was a stubbornly contested game all the way through. YALE-HARVARD DUAL GAMES. CAMBRIDGE MEN DEFEAT THE NEW-HAVEN

PLAYERS BY TWELVE POINTS. Cambridge, Mass., May 14 (Special).-Harvard woo the dual games from Yale this afternoon with a score of 56 points to 48.

Before the games both universities claimed a ory, and it looked as if the Blue would go back to New-Haven as winners, when after the first ten events they had 42 points to their credit, while the Crimson had but 38. But in the broad and high jumps ,and the 220-yard dash, which remained, Harvard succeeded in carrying off 18 points out of possible 24, thus winning the games.

If the Yale team could have had Walter, their high jumper, with them to win that event, the final result would have been Yale, 53; Harvard, 51. Three records were broken-Grant lowered the mile record to 4:281-5; Nickerson, in the broad jump, cleared 22 feet 10 inches, which is 4½ inches above the record for this event, and Johnson, of Yale. broke his own record in the pole vault, clearing the bar at 11 feet 3 inches. Robinson, Harvard, '04, ran the 100-yard dash in 0:10 1-55, just equalling the previous record for this event. Summary follows: One-hundred-yard-dash-First heat, won by H.
